

Richard (Rick) DeJohn has been an IT consultant, network engineer, and project manager for over 20 years, and has worked with Camus Consulting for the last ten years.

Prior to that, he held the Electronics Department Chair at the New England Technical Institute. In addition to his technical competence, Rick is consistently praised by clients for his ability to translate project management processes into everyday concepts that are easy to understand and apply. Rick regularly develops a quick bond with his audience, and his down-to-earth approach and sense of humor greatly helps students from all backgrounds learn the materials effectively and become better project managers.

Rick earned a bachelor's degree from Arizona State University as well as attaining a master's degree in information technology. Additionally, he has achieved Certified Training Credentials with Microsoft, Cisco and PMI.

With many years of real world experience built on a strong foundation of education and training, Rick is a highly qualified professional who brings his knowledge and experience to clients whether in the training environment or as a consultant. Aon Hewitt, Discover Financial, IBM, American Express, Kaiser Permanente, Med Assets, Bell South, Molex, Tellabs and Charles Schwab are just a few of the corporations he has worked with. Rick is an active member of the Project Management Institute and has authored a book on project management training.
